Not an April Fool's joke! 5 New QPL's for Federal Specifications and a lot of new NSN's.

A Qualified Products List (QPL) is attached to each of the Federal Specifications for GSA approved locks, containers, and vault doors. Each of the 5 Federal Specifications for GSA containers and vault doors received a new QPL on the same day, April 1, 2026.

The big change that prompted them all coming out at once is the fact that each model from each manufacturer now has its own National Stock Number (NSN).

In the past, a model for a GSA container or vault door would have a single NSN regardless of manufacturer. For instance, a class 6, 2-drawer, Single Lock, gray security container with a Style 1 lock (X-10) had a certain NSN. Now there are 5 NSN's for it, one for each manufacturer offering that model. This doesn't multiply the NSN's for GSA containers and vault doors by 5. Not all manufacturers offer all models of products. This greatly increases the number of NSN's for security files (I counted 696), but only changes weapons cabinets

This transition does not change the products, but it changes the way they will be ordered. It allows a purchaser to choose a manufacturer when ordering.
